About me

I am involved both as a professional (by working in two Local action groups - LAG of the territory where I live (Gauja Partnership, involved as decision maker) and the neighbouring LAG (PPP Association Sernikon, involved as executive)) and as a student in the field of spatial development planning (as of now working on my master's thesis on Smart village development).

What I expect from host organisation

I have found that working with different cultures is extremely valuable (even if not always easy) since you can get completely different perspective and thus expand your horizons. So, such international exchanges provide a possibility to get out of the "informational bubble" and get new insights, learn new practices or even learn that there are similar challenges, or some solutions are done the same way in other countries which can be quite useful too.
